WANT TO HELP?

It may be true that only God can make a tree, but it takes a lot of hands to make a trail. If you’d like to help, with brainpower, musclepower or money, the person to talk to is Steve McPikewhose e-mail address is Libbyhilltrails@gmail.com. Thank you!

IT’S NOT JUST A STEP OFF THE MAIN ROAD.
IT’S A STEP BACK IN TIME.
LIBBY HILL FOREST.
JUST WALK AWAY FROM IT ALL.

Here’s what you can do in the miles of trails in Libby Hill Forest:
Shake the cobwebs.
Spot a hawk.
Watch your child discover a frog.
Notice a wildflower.
Explore a cellar hole from the 19th century.
Dodge a butterfly.
Startle a deer.
Listen to the music of a warbler.
Inhale a few gallons of clear, crisp air.
Find out how easy it is to travel on snowshoes.

Think deep thoughts.
Let your mind run riot.
Sing at the top of your lungs.
Rocket down a steep slope on your cross-country skis.
Or take ‘em off and walk down.
Grin at a goofy dog.
And you’ll think of more.

Here’s what you absolutely cannot under any circumstances do:
Worry. Stay mad.

Libby Hill is for hikers, cross-country skiers, snowshoers, dreamers, dog-walkers, explorers of the past.
Over seven miles of trails lead you to someplace you’ve never been. Its wildness and natural diversity make each trip a new journey of discovery. Located only 30 minutes from Portland, Lewiston, and Brunswick it is easily accessible and one of Southern Maine’s best kept secrets.
A visit to Libby Hill Forest can last all day or an hour. There’s no gift shop, and no bad-food stand, but you can bring your own binoculars and a hunk of cheese and an apple, and you’ll be well-fed.
There’s no charge to get in. If you’d like to make a donation to help us pay the cost of maintaining the trails, that would be very welcome.
